Sylvia Meagher, 67, Former Health Official

Sylvia Meagher, a writer and retired senior liaison officer of the World Health Organization at the United Nations, died of complications from the flu Saturday at St. Vincent's Hospital. She was 67 years old and lived in Manhattan.

Miss Meagher was a native of Brooklyn who studied at Brooklyn College and had worked for the World Health Organization for 31 years. She wrote three books that pointed to major inconsistencies in the United States Government's findings in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy: "Subject Index to the Warren Commission Report" (1966), "Accessories After the Fact: The Warren Commission, the Authorities and the Report" (1967) and "Master Index to the J.F.K. Assassination Investigations" (1980).

Surviving are three nieces, Ruth Tessel and Susan Kaplan, both of East Brunswick, N.J., and Diane Vernickas of Dayton, N.J.
